LE ONLY: Extremist Threats Against Critical Infrastructure

This webinar is open to law enforcement and government ONLY. You must use your official government email to register. While violent extremists embrace attacks on soft targets, they express particular admiration and ambition for attacks that target critical infrastructure sectors — attacks that they hope will lead to wider chaos, destruction, and loss of life while advancing their goals. In this webinar to mark Infrastructure Security Month, Homeland Security Today Managing Editor Bridget Johnson will detail recent threats directed at multiple critical infrastructure sectors by various extremist movements, including patterns in this threat activity and encouraged tactics.
