Protecting Our Future: Partnering to Safeguard K-12 Organizations from Cybersecurity Threats

There is no more important institution to the future prosperity and strength of the United States than our nation's K–12 education system. K–12 schools and school districts have adopted advanced networking technologies that facilitate learning and make schools more efficient and effective. This technological gain, however, has introduced heightened risks. Malicious cyber actors are targeting K–12 education organizations across the country, with potentially catastrophic impacts on students, their families, teachers, and administrators.
